

By the end of our children's infant school journey at DCINS, we strive for them all to know these top ten objectives about religion and belief:

To recognise places of worship in and around the local area.

To recall a variety of parables and miracles.

To appreciate different cultures and religious beliefs.

To understand reasons why people might pray.

To have an understanding and appreciation of key Christian values.

To understand the differences of opinion in people that believe, and in those who do not believe.

To ask own questions about religion and belief.

To understand the Christian calendar and why things happen at particular times of the year.

To know The Holy Trinity.

To have and show respect for others people's beliefs.
